Federal Authorities Evaluate Threat Against Kennedy Family

By MERRIMAN SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Federal authorities sought today to evaluate the gravity of a reported threat by pro-Castro Cubans to assassinate President Kennedy and his family, possibly at church on Easter.

An undetermined number of nearby Cubans were under secret surveillance by federal and state police. The objects of a many-sided investigation included at least one man and woman, plus two other associates.

Food Service School To Be Conducted

Doctor A. D. Butterworth, Health Officer announces a "Food Service School" to be conducted by the Calloway County Health Department, April 5th, 6th and 7th. This type of training can be of great value and importance to a restaurant owner and his employees.

The many little gestures of courtesy that perhaps are overlooked as well as the fundamentals of sanitation will be presented.

There will be two sessions, one at 2:00 p. m. and another at 7:00 p. m. at the Health Center on Olive Street.

"You, as a restaurant operator, know that you do have to meet sanitary requirements to operate. To cultivate a good business, you must in turn make your customers happy. We, as health department employees, are expecting every person employed in your restaurant to attend as many of the sessions as possible. Certainly all of you cannot come at one time, but we believe that it will be to your advantage to make a point of seeing that all of you attend," Dr. Butterworth said. Any other person interested in the type of school may attend also, he said.

Have Rock Fish Adapted To Kentucky Lake? Yes, Maybe

Have Rockfish, the giant ocean striped bass, adapted themselves to Kentucky Lake?

Fishery biologists from throughout the Mid-South gathered at Murray State College last week to discuss that question.

Their answers?

Yes, maybe; perhaps we'll know definitely by the middle of May.

That the fish can thrive in the huge lake has definitely been proven. Some 475 of the fish have been stocked there by the fish and game commissions of Kentucky and Tennessee. Nine of that number have since been caught by fishermen and identified by biologists. Nine other fish have been reported caught, but they were not verified.

Each fish that has been seen by a biologist has been in fine condition and has shown substantial growth since it was transplanted. In fact the last three caught, (two in February, one in December), have weighed 11.6 pounds, 13.4 pounds, and 12.1 pounds. All three were from 9-12 inch yearlings when stocked. All three were caught in the Duck River section of the Lake which is about 25 miles upstream from the Kentucky-Tennessee border. Seven others have been reported caught in this general area.

However, this is not the only place the fish have been recovered. Two have been caught at Kentucky Dam, one above and one below, and five have been reported from the other end of the lake at Pickwick.

Whether the fish will reproduce in the lake is the major question now facing the biologists. Attempts were made last year to recover eggs of the fish, but the attempt was only partly successful. Several eggs were recovered but they were found to be infertile. However, John Condon, a biologist with the Tennessee Fish and Game Commission, later recovered four eggs that he thought were from the rockfish. He put them in an aquarium at his home in an attempt to hatch them. One eventually was hatched. It was packaged and sent to a biologist on the east coast for identification, but in transit, it was crushed beyond recognition, so identification was not established.

The biologists will attempt again this spring to capture eggs of the fish, and they feel that they learned enough last year to stand a better chance of success. Since studies have shown that the stripers usually spawn when water temperatures reach 70 degrees, the biologists will set up their stations when the water is 65 degrees, and will keep them in operation 24 hours a day for a month. Two Injured As Police Chase 3 In Stolen Car

City and State police last night engaged in a chase of a stolen automobile which ended with the automobile being wrapped around a tree on the Lynn Grove highway.

City police had been told by the Mayfield State Police office of the possibility that the automobile might come through Murray. Patrolmen James Witherspoon and Kemp were in the city police cruiser last night about midnight when they saw the 1958 Oldsmobile come into Murray from the direction of the lake.

They immediately turned and gave chase out West Main, picking up the State Police cruiser on the square.

After chasing the car about two miles, the driver of the car lost control, plowed out into a field and struck a tree.

Injured were Carl and Don Whitington of Murrefreesboro, Illinois. A passenger, a fourteen year old girl in the back seat, was not injured. The car was demolished.

Police said that the two are charged with stealing a car, transporting a female across a state line, transporting a stolen car across a state line, and robbery.

The pair are alleged to have stopped near Fairdeland and pursued because most of the fish that have been caught have come from the two vicinities.

It is believed that most of the big fish will either spawn at Pickwick or upstream in the lake's tributaries. Specially - built, fine-mesh nets will be used for the recovery tries. The rockfish deposits its eggs freely along rocks and bars where there is current. The eggs are buoyant, and float downstream with the current, just under the surface.

Crews for the netting operations will be supplied by the fish and game departments of Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama, Murray State, and the TVA. The rockfish were stocked in Kentucky Lake after a study of the big TVA reservoir by Dr. Hunter Hancock of the Murray State biology faculty, indicated that they might thrive and reproduce there. The study was financed by a grant from the Sport Fishing Institute. Two other grants for a continuation of the study have since been received by Dr. Hancock.

His study showed the lake to contain ample supplies of gizzard shad and mayfly nymph, staples in the big fish's diet. It also showed that water velocity, extremely important to a successful spawn, seems to correspond favorably with that at Santee-Cooper Lake in South Carolina and Kerr Reservoir, the only fresh water lakes in which the fish have reproduced.

Persons attending the meeting at Murray included Bernard Carter and Charles Bowers of the Kentucky Department of Wildlife Resources; John Condon and C. E. Ruhr of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission; Jack Chanco, Ben Jacob, and Gordon E. Hall, of the TVA; W. J. Perry, of the U.S. Geological Survey; C. E. White of the Alabama Game and Fish Department, and Dr. Hancock.

Henry Hargis officiating. Burial will be in the Friendship Cemetery.

Friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home.

Birch Head Defends His Society

BELMONT, Mass. (UPI)—Robert Welch, founder and head of the John Birch Society, issued a statement Friday night in reply to what he said was an "incredible fog of falsehood" being circulated about him.

"This statement is offered as an effort to pierce, by at least a tiny beam of truth, some of the incredible fog of falsehood now being so widely circulated about me. So please let me point out the following facts:

"Nowhere in my private or published writings have I ever called former President Eisenhower a 'card-carrying' Communist. Any body who says I have is either knowingly dealing in falsehood or is badly misinformed.

"Even in my private confidential letter, written years ago, which it has been completely unethical for anybody to quote anywhere, and in which I stated in the blunt language of a personal letter some harsh personal opinion of our then President, I made it very clear at the end of the letter that I had no quarrel with anybody who wished to attribute his actions simply to political opportunism. That is how the letter came to be dubbed 'The Politician.'

"Also, please note that this long letter had been read in 1955 by most of the men who were at the founding meeting of the John Birch Society in December, 1958. Despite having read my letter, most of them had vigorously supported Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign. And at the founding of the society, the letter was discussed and specifically disavowed by the group as being no part of the material of belief of the John Birch Society in any way.

"Please note to that, despite falsehoods now being circulated, I have gone out of my way to make clear in my book that I did not think either Roosevelt or Truman were Communists or sympathizers in any way with ultimate Communist aims. As there are many other statements being attributed to me that are equally false or distorted.

"The John Birch Society is not, simply because we have sought to avoid publicity, thereby a secret society. Our objective has been to build strength and understanding instead of creating noise, 'all of our materials are wide open for anybody to purchase.

"The John Birch Society is a group of splendid men and women of good character, fervent patriotism, religious ideals, and excellent standing in their respective communities. It has broken no law, violated no moral principles, and has a firmly stated foundation of its program that even god ends never justify bad means.

"We ask at least the responsible part of the American press to have more regard for the truth about us. Our only 'crime' is fighting communism, and that we intend to continue until our side wins."

candidate for

MAGISTRATE OF MURRAY DISTRICT

I, Euphrey Cohoon, wish to announce that I am a Candidate for Magistrate of the Murray District, and I earnestly solicit your vote and influence in my behalf.

My home is 4 miles east of Murray on the Pottertown Road, where I have engaged in farming. I am the father of five children, Joe Nelson Cohoon, Thelma James, Sue Lovett and Jane Stokes. My wife is the former Neva Andrus.

All of my adult life I have been extremely interested in this county and its problems. School and Roads, of course, are very important to you and to me. If I am elected your representative on the Calloway County Fiscal Court I will do my utmost to help alleviate some of these problems. I believe that road money should be allocated on the basis of mileage, need and the number of people to be served in each area.

I will try to see each person in this district, to get your views and to share mine before the election. If I should miss you, I sincerely request your assistance.

Easter Egg Party

Little Sister Styles
In Pastels And Prints

ONE SISTER ACT THAT really goes over big with both the younger set and their mamas is this twosome. The dresses are in a bright pattern with full, flaring skirts.

By SUSAN BARDEN

THE SPRING holidays are coming very soon and younger daughters will be looking forward to Easter vacations.

Easter Treats

There will be lots of treats in store for the lollipop set, such as discovering what the Bunny brought, hunting Easter eggs and rolling eggs on the lawn.

It seems that every year little girls' dresses and costumes get prettier and smarter. Delightfully varied.

Following this happy trend are the outfits pictured, which seem especially delightful and varied. Cotton, preferred by most designers of children's clothes, is seen this season in lovely shades ranging from pastels to bright hues, and also in many new prints. It is shown in twill for the two suits here, and in monogram cotton for the dresses.

No wonder the material is popular because, besides being crisp and fresh, it is easy to launder, comfortable to wear and durable.

THIS MERRY MOPPET wears an outfit consisting of a short jacket and culottes.

A SCALLOPED JACKET, side-buttoned and bowed, is teamed with a wide skirt.

Fashion Model Uses Job As Means To End

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK, (UPI) — To most young career women in New York you've arrived if you can become a top fashion model.

To Eloise Bethell, modeling is the easiest way to underwriting another future as a serious artist. Miss Bethell, a southern-born belle, is an impressive mixture of beauty, brains, talent, ambition and driving energy. She paints in the early morning hours, models during the day, and carries a full academic load in the evenings and Saturdays at New York University.

She is working towards a master's degree in the creative arts and plans to continue until she has her Ph.D. Eloise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. P. Bethell of Wilmington, N. C., averages $40 an hour as a clothes horse. She gets anywhere from $30 to $800 for her paintings—the price of each depending on the medium, whether a watercolor, pen and ink drawing, or an oil.

"When I exhibit at galleries, I sell," she laughed, "but in between exhibits there are those long, hungry spaces. Something has to pay the rent."

Miss Bethell began her painting as a student at Converse College, Spartansburg, S. C., and her modeling when she finished college at the age of 19 and came to New York.

"A former roommate at Converse was going to Columbia University," she said in an interview at her Greenwich Village apartment. "She was paying her way through school by modeling, and she helped me get my first job in fashion."

That was in 1950, she said, and except for a couple of years of travel and modeling assignments caught on the run at Paris couture houses, she since has been pouring her 120 pounds and five feet seven and one-half inches into some of the slinkiest clothes produced in the garment district.

"I like modeling, I really do," she said, "but one day I hope to earn my living strictly by painting."

Her travels "just to paint" took her first to San Miguel, Allende, a mountain village 140 miles north of Mexico City, where her subjects were the peasants, the beggars and the scenery. She then moved to Mexico City for six months to study at the Academy de Bellas Artes, started by the famed Diego Rivera.

Takes Over Attic A "visit" to her brother, George W. Bethell, in Portland, Ore., ended "with me taking over their empty attic for a studio and exhibiting there," she said. Eloise also found time to enroll at Portland State College for more credits towards her master's degree.

Then she decided to see Europe. "I worked my way through the country, as a combination driver and tourist guide," she said. "I carried five translation dictionaries in the glove compartment to help me out when I got stuck. Then, when artist friends in Lebanon invited me to visit them, I figured why not—I already was a far piece from home."

She painted and taught art in Aley, Lebanon, until last October when she decided "I'd better get back to New York, get enrolled in college, and see if I could arrange an exhibit."

"I figure people'll come to look at me more than paintings," she laughed, "like a monkey in a zoo, thing... in other countries, they are only interested in the artist. No one asks you how you buy your paints."
